

Work-Based Learning

is a one semester elective course designed to help 11th and 12th grade students learn first-hand about jobs that they are interested in exploring for their future careers. This program helps students learn about career fields in-depth before they decide whether or not to pursue them. Student interns chose community sites where they can observe and work together with mentors to see firsthand what various jobs entail. The students go through the application and interview processes just like they will in the “real” business world.

This program supports our students as they prepare for their futures.
