Progress as reported is based primarily on the Brigance Inventory of Early Development III (2013). This instrument gives a developmental profile of a child's skills in a number of "learning" areas. Results from this inventory provide teachers with information about a child's current level of performance and assist the teacher in planning instructional activities that would promote further growth and/or educational progress. This instrument will be used periodically throughout your child's participation in the Dennis-Yarmouth Early Education Program.
